Meet Malinda Prud'homme

Malinda Prud'homme is a talented Mixed Media and Portrait Artist who works from her cozy studio in Toronto's Art & Design District. She's been a professional artist since 2009 and began her full-time career in 2012.

She works tirelessly towards her dream of being a successful artist and is proud to include exhibiting her artwork internationally and attracting clients from all over the world to her list of achievements.

Though her 'safe' plan was to become a teacher she always had a talent for art. At age four she returned home from school and asked her mother, 'Mommy guess what I'm going to be when I grow up?" When her mother asked she replied,'An Artist, Madame Cheff told me that.' It seems that even her kindergarten teacher knew she would have the skill to become a remarkable artist.

After graduating from University and discovering there were no opportunities in the teaching market, she decided to take the leap into a career as an artist.

Malinda's style is influenced by the artists of the Renaissance period. As they did in the past, her creative process begins with inspiration and is then executed with techniques that result in a high level of realism.

She believes the time focused toward a piece and the immaculate detail achieved is one of the aspects that make her artwork so impressive.

When Malinda isn't creating works of art she is likely cuddled up with a good book and her big cat Maverick.
